Minerals 260 Limited ("Minerals 260" or "Company") is pleased to announce its shares will commence trading on the Australian Securities Exchange ("ASX") at 10.00am (AWST) today, following the completion of its oversubscribed Initial Public Offering ("IPO") which raised $30 million (before costs).

The Company is planning to commence a 6,000m diamond core/Reverse Circulation drilling campaign later this month at its key projects – the Moora and Koojan JV Projects, which are located within the highly prospective Julimar Mineral Province. The initial focus of drilling will be the 100%-owned Angepena prospect, where drilling earlier this year intersected 43m @ 1.8g/t gold.

Minerals 260's Managing Director David Richards commented: "It gives me great pleasure to announce the Company's ASX listing today, after what has been a very successful demerger and IPO process that will allow the Company to accelerate exploration on its highly prospective asset portfolio. Drilling is planned to follow up on the numerous targets that were previously defined within the Moora and Koojan Project areas.

"As we achieve this significant milestone, I would like to thank Liontown shareholders and directors for their ongoing support, as well as our new shareholders, including a number of leading institutions and HNW individuals. We are looking forward to hitting the ground running with a systematic exploration program that we believe will unlock the full potential of our key projects and put Minerals 260 on a pathway to growth and success."

This announcement has been authorised for release by the Managing Director.
